

Table of Contents

Preface

1. Setting the Scene

Gender Studies and the Revolution of Knowledge

The Realities of Patriarchy

Media and Self-Image

Implications

Pastoral Issues in Counseling with Women

2. Building the Frame

Personality Theory

Counseling Theory

Conclusion

3. Helping Women Come to Voice

The Centrality of Voice in Feminist Theory and Theology

Contexts Related to Women's Loss of Voice

A Narrative Approach to Helping Women Come to Voice

4. Coming to Voice in the Context of Intimate Violence

Intimate Violence and the Church

Intimate Violence: Definitions and Contexts

Helping Women Come to Voice in the Context of Intimate Violence

5. Helping Women Gain Clarity

Gaining Distance from Problematic or Untruthful Narrative Strands

Five Rs for Helping Women to Gain Clarity

6. Gaining Clarity in the Context of Depression

Defining Depression

Who Gets Depressed?

Women's Experiences with Depression

Life in a Sexist, Racist, and Classist Culture

Caring for Women Struggling with Depression

Implications for Narrative Counseling

7. Helping Women Make Choices

Risks in Making Choices

Models of Choice Making

A Feminist Narrative Approach to Helping Women Make Choices

Criteria for Making and Evaluating Choices

The Personal and Political Nature of Making Choices

8. Making Choices in the Context of Aging

Challenging Ageist and Sexist Stereotypes

The Importance of Studying Women and Aging

Living with and Escaping from the Culture's Sexist and Ageist Messages

Risks and Benefits of Aging for Women

Helping Older Women Make Narrative Choices

9. Conclusion: Helping Women Stay Connected

Helping Women Stay Connected—Women and Relationality

The Importance of Community for Women in Pastoral Counseling

Notes

Index