

Contents

Preface to the Third Edition . . . . .	xi
Mark as an Oral/Aural Composition . . . . .	xi
The Importance of the Cosmic Dimensions of Mark's Story . . . . .	xii
The Roman Imperial Context. . . . .	xiii
Introduction: The Gospel of Mark as Story . . . . .	1
The Historical Context of the Gospel of Mark. . . . .	2
What Type of Story Did Mark Compose? . . . . .	2
The Coherence of Mark's Narrative. . . . .	3
The Story World. . . . .	4
Guidelines for Reading Mark as a Story . . . . .	5
A Narrative Method for Interpreting Mark . . . . .	6
Chapter 1. The Gospel of Mark . . . . .	9
Introduction to the Translation. . . . .	9
The Gospel of Mark. . . . .	11
Chapter 2. The Narrator . . . . .	39
The Role of the Narrator . . . . .	39
The narrator speaks from outside the story world. . . . .	41
The narrator is not bound by time or space. . . . .	41
Mark's narrator is omniscient . . . . .	41
The narrator guides by means of "asides" . . . . .	42
The narrator gives the audience privileged knowledge. . . . .	43
The Narrator's Point of View. . . . .	44
The narrator is not neutral . . . . .	44
The narrator's standards of judgment . . . . .	45
The Narrator's Style and Tempo . . . . .	46
The Narrator's Patterns of Repetition in Storytelling . . . . .	47
Verbal threads . . . . .	48

Foreshadowing and retrospection . . . . .	48
Two-step progressions . . . . .	49
Type-scenes . . . . .	51
Sandwich episodes . . . . .	51
Framing episodes . . . . .	52
Episodes in a concentric pattern . . . . .	52
Progressive episodes in series of three . . . . .	54
Other Literary Features . . . . .	54
Questions . . . . .	55
Riddles . . . . .	56
Quotations from the writings . . . . .	57
Prophecies . . . . .	58
Irony . . . . .	59
Conclusion . . . . .	60
Chapter 3. The Settings . . . . .	63
The Cosmic Setting . . . . .	64
The Political-Cultural Setting . . . . .	66
The Journey . . . . .	66
Patterns of movement on the journey . . . . .	67
Settings recalling Israel's past . . . . .	69
Public and private settings . . . . .	70
The journey as the way of God . . . . .	71
Conclusion . . . . .	72
Chapter 4. The Plot . . . . .	73
Approaches to the Plot . . . . .	73
The unity of Mark's plot . . . . .	73
Beginning, middle, and end . . . . .	74
Connections in Mark's plot . . . . .	75
The fulfillment or nonfulfillment of expectations . . . . .	76
The outcome of Mark's plot . . . . .	76
The plot involves conflict . . . . .	77
The Rule of God Initiates the Conflicts . . . . .	78
Stage 1: The inauguration of the rule of God . . . . .	80
Stage 2: The culmination of the rule of God . . . . .	81
Jesus in Conflict with Cosmic Forces . . . . .	82
Jesus in Conflict with the Authorities . . . . .	84
The development of the conflict in the plot . . . . .	85
The authorities' side of the conflict: Defending God's law . . . . .	88
Jesus' side of the conflict: Message and evasion . . . . .	89
The resolution of the conflict . . . . .	89
Jesus in Conflict with the Disciples . . . . .	90

The development of the conflict in the plot . . . . . 91
 The disciples' side of the conflict: Overwhelmed by the rule of God . . . . . 93
 Jesus' side of the conflict: Making faithful disciples . . . . . 94
 The resolution of the conflict . . . . . 95
 Conclusion . . . . . 96

Chapter 5. The Characters I: Jesus . . . . . 99

Approaches to Characterization . . . . . 100
 Characters as types . . . . . 101
 Standards of judgment . . . . . 102
 Comparison and contrast . . . . . 102
 Traits of the characters . . . . . 103
 Identification with characters . . . . . 103
 Summary . . . . . 104
 Jesus . . . . . 104
 Characterization . . . . . 105
 Agent of the rule of God . . . . . 105
 The authority of Jesus . . . . . 106
 Faith . . . . . 108
 Serving and not lording over others . . . . . 108
 Renouncing self, being least, and losing life for others . . . . . 110
 Jesus faces death . . . . . 111
 The execution . . . . . 112
 The meaning of Jesus' crucifixion . . . . . 113
 The empty grave . . . . . 115

Chapter 6. The Characters II: The Authorities, the Disciples, and the Minor Characters . . . . . 117

The Authorities . . . . . 117
 Characterization . . . . . 118
 No authority from God . . . . . 118
 No love for God or neighbor . . . . . 119
 Blind and deaf . . . . . 119
 Willful blindness . . . . . 120
 The authorities save themselves . . . . . 121
 Fear is at the root of their actions . . . . . 121
 The authorities lord over people . . . . . 122
 The audience and the authorities . . . . . 123
 The Disciples . . . . . 123
 Characterization . . . . . 124
 Faith, loyalty, and authority . . . . . 125
 Lack of understanding, fear, and lack of faith . . . . . 125
 Seeking glory and resisting death on the journey . . . . . 126

Fear and flight in Jerusalem . . . . .	127
The failure of the disciples . . . . .	128
After the resurrection . . . . .	129
The audience and the disciples . . . . .	129
The Minor Characters . . . . .	130
Characterization . . . . .	131
Faith . . . . .	131
Losing life, being least, and serving . . . . .	132
Women . . . . .	133
Comparison and contrast with other characters . . . . .	133
Ongoing discipleship . . . . .	134
The crowds . . . . .	134
The audience and the minor characters . . . . .	135
Conclusion . . . . .	136
Conclusion: The Audience . . . . .	137
The Rhetoric . . . . .	137
The Ideal Audience . . . . .	138
Stage 1: Experiencing the rule of God . . . . .	139
Stage 2: Overcoming resistance to the rule of God . . . . .	140
Stage 3: Facing persecution and execution in Jerusalem . . . . .	141
The ending . . . . .	142
Hypothetical First-Century Audiences . . . . .	144
Case Study: A Performance Scenario . . . . .	146
The reign of God and the empire of Rome . . . . .	147
The culture of the rule of God . . . . .	148
In the aftermath of the Roman-Judean War . . . . .	148
Opposing the Judean revolutionaries . . . . .	149
Call to commitment . . . . .	150
A new world . . . . .	151
Contemporary Readers . . . . .	152
Epilogue: Reading as a Dialogue: The Ethics of Reading . . . . .	153
Afterword by Mark Allan Powell . . . . .	157
Appendix 1: Exercises for an Overall Narrative Analysis of Mark . . . . .	163
Appendix 2: Exercises for a Narrative Analysis of Episodes . . . . .	167
Appendix 3: Exercises for Learning and Telling Episodes . . . . .	173
Notes . . . . .	179
Selected Bibliography for the Third Edition . . . . .	189