

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Abbreviations	xi
Introduction	xv
Barth's Ethics: Appreciative and Critical Stances	xvi
Actualism and Election	xxv
Orders of Creation	xxxii
Gospel and Law and the Public Dimension of Ethics	xxxvii
Gospel and Law in Historico-Genealogical Perspective	xliv
I. The Development of Barth's Ethics from the First Epistle to the Romans to Church Dogmatics I/1	1
From Sacrifice to Revelation: The Actualistic Concept of Revelation	2
"The Christian in Society" and the First Edition of The Epistle to the Romans	5
The Second Edition of The Epistle to the Romans	21
Sacrifice and Repentance after the Second Edition of the Romans
Commentary	57
The Dogmatic Concept of the Actualistic Commandment 1924–32:
Personalism and Lordship	67
Actualistic Ethics: The Lecture Cycle 1928–29, 1931–32	102
The Concept of Sacrifice and Barth's Political Activism (1931–38)	126

II. The Ethics of the Doctrine of God in Church Dogmatics II/2	137
The Priority of the Gospel over the Law	138
Election and the Doctrine of God in CD II/2	168
The Ethics of Election and the Doctrine of God in CD II/2	174
Conclusion	252
III. The Ethics of the Doctrine of Creation in Church Dogmatics III/4	257
The Introduction to Special Ethics §52: Transformation and Development in the Ethics of Creation	265
The Holy Day (§53.1): Continuities in the Christian Life and Contextual Ethics	278
The Termination of a Pregnancy (§ 55.2): Conditions of the Marginal Case in a Realistic Ethics	290
Killing for the Sake of Justice (§55.2)? Capital Punishment	305
Peace Ethics (§55.2): Politics of Peace and the Marginal Case of War	313
Conclusion	337
IV. The Foundations of Ethics in the Doctrine of Reconciliation in Church Dogmatics IV	341
God's Revelation in the Passion of Christ	342
The Ethics of Cruciform Discipleship	343
Gender Ethics: Unilateral Subordination	359
The Crucifixion of Jesus in the Gospels	368
Justification through Cross and Resurrection: Theologia Crucis et Glorae	397
Transformations in Barth's Understanding of Christ's Majesty	412
The Pneumatological Dimension in Ethics	420
The Activity of the Spirit and the Life of the Community:
Church Law (§67.4)	430
Conclusion	434

V. Perspectives: Responsibility and Faith in the Triune God	437
The Concept of Gospel and Law in Public Dimensions of Moral Action	437
Ethics and the Theology of Creation	449
An Ethics of Responsibility and Natural Goods	462
Barth's Christological Contributions to a Theory of Responsibility	468
God's Differentiated Presence in the Spirit	476
Bibliography	483
Index of Names	529