

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
1. Introduction	1
Part I. Theology and the Problem of Perception
2. The Problem of Perception and the Perception of God	15
3. Freeing Theology from the Problem of Perception	65
Part II. The Perception of God in Some Recent Philosophical Theology
4. Marion, Alston, and the Myth of the Given	139
5. Preller, Hector, and Sellarsian Coherentism	215
Part III. Toward a Theological Empiricism
6. McDowell's Naturalized Platonism as a Minimal Empiricism	271

7. Religious Experience in Modernity An Exculpatory Explanation	317
8. Gregory of Nyssa A Minimally Empiricist Reformulation?	363
9. Christian Religious Experience A Posttherapeutic Proposal	393
Bibliography	457