"In this thoughtful and accessible book, Russell Pregeant engages important questions about reading the Bible. He tackles tough contemporary issues ranging from biblical authority to care for the earth, from the rapture to evolution, from sexual and gender issues to the nature of salvation and the doing of ethics."

Reading the Bible for All the Wrong Reasons

Russell Pregeant, Emeritus
Curry College

The Bible can be hazardous to one's health if it is read with faulty expectations. New Testament scholar Russell Pregeant shows that reading the Bible "without interpretation" is impossible; the right question is which assumptions are most appropriate to the Bible. The Bible's authority is not a matter of its factual, historical, or scientific accuracy–so it can hardly "disprove" scientific theories of evolution and the nature of the universe. It does not provide crystal ball-like glimpses of the future; these are distortions of the meaning of biblical prophecy and biblical ethics. And while the Bible has long been read as a source for Christian doctrine, Pregeant emphasizes that Christians must take responsibility for their own uses–and abuses–of the biblical text.

Introducing the Bible
Second Edition

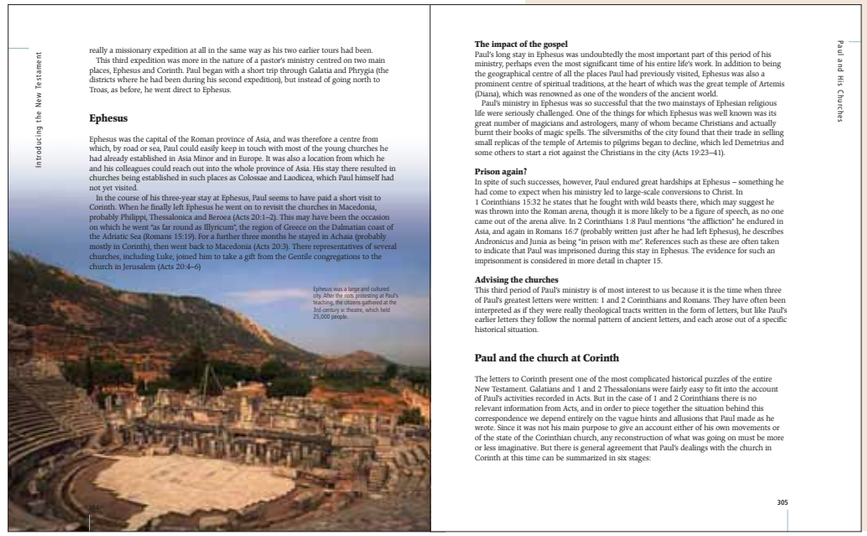

John Drane

University of Aberdeen

John Drane's survey textbook provides a general introduction to the persons, events, and cultural context of the Bible. Arranged historically, Drane's text takes readers through the books of the Old and New Testaments with numerous special articles spelling out in greater detail both historical and interpretative controversies that figure significantly in contemporary scholarship.

"This richly illustrated introduction to the Christian Bible will serve many colleges, universities, and seminaries well, especially those with a two-semester sequence. It attends to historical and social contexts, recent archeological discoveries, and current scholarship both in the text and in well-placed sidebars. Drane presents a wide range of interpretations of key issues and questions, tending toward the traditional in his own conclusions. Distinct from many introductions, the book also includes substantive discussions of theological matters in both testaments. The many illustrations of various periods, geographical settings, artifacts, and manuscripts, in addition to the maps and timelines that complement the text, create an attractive and engaging presentation."

Textual Criticism of the Hebrew Bible
Third Edition, Revised and Expanded

Emanuel Tov

Hebrew University

Since its initial publication, Textual Criticism of the Hebrew Bible has established itself as the indispensable, authoritative textbook and reference on the subject. In this thoroughly revised third edition, Emanuel Tov has incorporated the insights of the last ten years of scholarship, including new perspectives on the biblical texts among the Dead Sea Scrolls, all of which have now been published. Here are expanded discussions of the contribution of textual criticism to biblical exegesis and of the role of scribes in the transmission of the text. The introduction, references, and discussions throughout the book have been thoroughly revised with the beginning student in mind.

"Emanuel Tov is preeminent in the world in the field of Septuagint studies. This is a solid and durable work which, given its technical character, is written in a readable way."

—Frank Moore Cross
Harvard University

"History will surely regard Emanuel Tov's monumental work as the definitive discussion of textual criticism of this generation. A 'must-have' for any serious scholar of the Bible!"

Jeremiah

Pain and Promise

Kathleen M. O'Connor

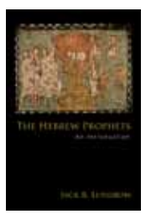

Columbia Theological Seminary

Whether dealing with collective catastrophe or intimate trauma, recovering from emotional and physical hurt is hard. Kathleen O'Connor shows that although Jeremiah's emotionally wrought language can aggravate readers' memories of pain, it also documents the ways an ancient community—and the prophet personally—sought to restore their collapsed social world. Both prophet and book provide a traumatized community language to articulate disaster; move self-understanding from delusional security to identity as survivors; constitute individuals as responsible moral agents; portray God as equally afflicted by disaster; and invite a reconstruction of reality.

Tanak

A Theological and Critical Introduction to the Jewish Bible

Marvin A. Sweeney

Claremont School of Theology

Though "biblical theology" has long been considered a strictly Christian enterprise, Marvin A. Sweeney here proposes a Jewish theology of the Hebrew Bible, organized around the major components Torah, Nevi'im (Prophets), and Kethuvim (Writings). Here Sweeney finds the structuring themes of Jewish life: the constitution of the nation Israel in relation to G-d; the disruption of that ideal, documented by the Prophets; and the reconstitution of the nation around the Second Temple in the Writings, within and among the texts and the dialogical character of Israel's sacred heritage.

1 Enoch 2

A Critical Commentary on the Book of
1 Enoch, Chapters 37–82

Hermeneia

Geoorge W. E. Nickelsburg and James C. VanderKam

Klaus Baltzer, Editor

Authoritative interpretation of one of the most complex and important writings from early Judaism

1 Enoch presents interpreters with a complex knot of interrelated puzzles concerning the history of early Judaism, the trajectories of wisdom and apocalyptic traditions, and the role of astronomical observation in cosmological speculation—all tied up with the bewildering history of the book's composition and transmission, in different languages and manuscript traditions, over centuries. Two of the world's preeminent scholars offer masterful judgments on all of these questions out of the erudition gained over long and distinguished careers. The result is a remarkably lucid and accessible commentary that will be the definitive resource on 1 Enoch for decades.

GEORGE W. E. NICKELSBURG is Professor of Religion Emeritus at the University of Iowa, where he taught for more than three decades. Among his many works are Jewish Literature between the Bible and the Mishnah, 2nd ed. (Fortress Press, 2005) and Early Judaism: Texts and Documents on Faith and Piety, Revised Edition (coeditor; Fortress Press, 2009).

JAMES C. VANDERKAM is John A. O'Brien Professor of Hebrew Scriptures at the University of Notre Dame. He has edited twelve volumes in the series Discoveries in the Judaean Desert and is a member of the editorial committee for the remaining unpublished Dead Sea Scrolls. Line drawings help to illustrate the Ancient Near Eastern context.

Encounters with Jesus

The Man in His Place and Time

Adriana Destro and Mauro Pesce

Translated by Brian McNeil

What was there in Jesus' person, behavior, and words that prompted not only much enthusiasm but also much hostility? This compelling portrait of the man Jesus of Nazareth by two pioneers of the anthropological study of early Christianity answers this vital question. They give close attention to the everyday realities that shaped those encounters: the facts of travel, common meals, domestic space, and the interactions of bodies. The result is a refreshing new look at the man who proved so significant—and so controversial—in Western culture.

An encounter with a bold counter cultural life

ADRIANA DESTRO is Professor of Cultural Anthropology at the University of Bologna and the author of numerous books in anthropology and the anthropological study of religion.

MAURO PESCE is Professor of History at the University of Bologna and the author of numerous books in New Testament Studies. Together they have authored Come nasce una religione (2000) and Antropologia delle origini cristiane, 3rd ed. (2005).

The New Testament

A Literary History

Gerd Theissen

University of Heidelberg
Translated by Linda M. Maloney

Gerd Theissen takes up the problem of the emergence of the New Testament canon out of the wide variety of early Christian literature. Drawing from Max Weber's discussion of the evolution of religious organizations, Theissen describes the development of early Christian literature as a series of phases in the life of the movement: the charismatic, the pseudepigraphic, the functional, and the canonical.

Christian Music

A Global History

Tim Dowley

Tim Dowley's popular history of Christian music is the first to encompass all eras, regions, and varieties of this rich and vast treasure. From its Jewish origins, through medieval chant and hymns, to gospel and rock, Christian music around the world is harmonized beautifully in this colorfully illustrated survey. Dowley travels beneath the plurality of forms and styles to pose questions about the meaning of diverse traditions. His skillful narrative and fascinating insights from specialists combine for a truly global history of Christianity's musical culture.

Dietrich Bonhoeffer Works, Volume 15

Edited by Victoria J. Barnett

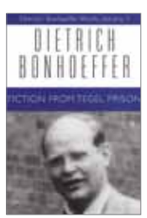

Translated by Victoria J. Barnett, Claudia D. Bergmann, Scott A. Moore, and Peter Frick. Supplementary materials translated by Douglas W. Stott

This volume of writings covers a crucial time and an understudied period of Bonhoeffer's life. It begins during the final period of his illegal work in training Confessing Church seminarians and concludes as he begins his activities in the German resistance. Bridging these two periods is his brief journey to the United States in summer 1939, when he pondered and ultimately rejected a move to the safety of exile. Bonhoeffer's writings from this transitional period, particularly his New York diary, offer a rare and more deeply personal picture of Bonhoeffer in a time of great inner turmoil.

Great Christian Thinkers

From the Early Church through the Middle Ages

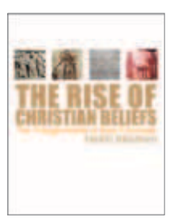

Pope Benedict XVI

In brief portraits, Pope Benedict XVI offers engaging, perceptive, and edifying sketches of some of the great thinkers and writers of Christianity, from early Christianity through the high Middle Ages. Pope Benedict discusses notable theologians from East and West but also many figures whose primary witness was as ascetics, poets, mystics, and missionaries. Always with an eye to their deepest religious convictions and struggles, the Holy Father presents these great thinkers' importance for the church and for Christian life today.

Women and Redemption

A Theological History

Second Edition

Rosemary Radford Ruether

Claremont School of Theology

In the first edition, Ruether highlighted the contributions of women theologians from around the world to challenge the patriarchal paradigm of historical theology and to present an understanding of redemption that is linked to the liberation of women. Now Ruether picks up where she left off, turning her attention to the situation of women globally and how the growing plurality of women's voices from multicultural and multireligious contexts is engaged in articulating feminist liberation theology today.

"Women and Redemption is a tour de force, an essential text for understanding women's theological reflection throughout the centuries of Christianity and around the world."

The Quest for the Historical Satan

Miguel A. De La Torre and Albert Hernández

Iliff School of Theology

De La Torre and Hernández follow the murky origins of satanic legends and beliefs back to their pre-Christian roots in the Middle East. They also trace the Satan tradition in historic Christianity, in which, the authors argue, the Satan/trickster tradition is historically rich and theologically promising. This is a fascinating story that helps the reader reframe basic elements of our worldview of good and evil.

"This is a riveting, compelling, and accessible text and a must read for anyone who has entertained questions about theodicy, the demonic, and the capacity of every human being to do evil."

What is African American Religion?

Facets series

Anthony B. Pinn

Rice University

Is there really a monolithic "black church"? Distilling the arguments of Pinn's important and provocative work in Terror and Triumph: The Nature of Black Religion, this brief work asks the central question: What really is African American religion? Sketching the religious landscape of African American communities today, Pinn makes explicit the tension in traditional conversations about black religion that privilege either Christianity in particular or organizations (with doctrines and creeds) in general. Discussing the misunderstandings and historical inaccuracies of such views, Pinn offers an alternate theory of black religion that begins with a basic push for embodied meaning as its core impulse.

Encountering the Jewish Future

With Wiesel, Buber, Heschel, Arendt, and Levinas

Marc H. Ellis

Baylor University

Ellis's work is framed by encounters with each thinker's work, focusing on topics of God, the Holocaust, the prophetic legacy, philosophical and ethical standpoints, and Jewish empowerment and dissent. Ellis argues that the uncertain future of Judaism requires a deeply personal and intellectual exploration of Jewish tradition and identity, in conversation with the best philosophical and theological minds of recent years.

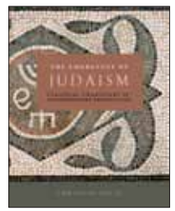

"An exquisite journey into modern Jewish thinking in all its complexity, pain, and beauty. Marc Ellis provides a rich and compelling examination of where we have been, where we are now, and where we must go, told with intellectual rigor and profound sensitivity."

Ethics That Matters

African, Caribbean, and African American Sources

Marcia Y. Riggs and James Samuel Logan, Editors

Forward by Cornell West

In light of economic globalization, ongoing issues of race, gender, and class, and rapidly changing roles of institutions, Riggs, Logan, and colleagues assert that Christian social ethics needs to be reframed completely. Three questions are at the heart of this vital inquiry: How can moral community flourish in a global context? What kinds of leadership do we need to nurture global moral community? How shall we construe social institutions and social movements for change in the twenty-first century?

Suffering and Salvation in Cuidad Juárez

Nancy Pineda-Madrid

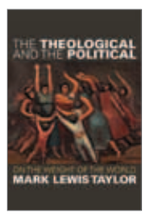

Boston College

Since 1993 more than six hundred girls and women have been brutally slain in Ciudad Juárez in internationally condemned violence. No one has been arrested. Nancy Pineda-Madrid detects in the social suffering of the women there a yearning for release, justice, and healing in their quest for salvation through solidarity and community practices that resist rather than acquiesce to the violence.

"This extremely important work of a leading scholar in Latina feminist theological studies is a must read for all concerned with the politics of suffering and salvation. Suffering and Salvation in Ciudad Juárez should be found on the reading lists of all courses in theology and ethics. Trauma and Transformation at Ground Zero

A Pastoral Theology

Storm Swain

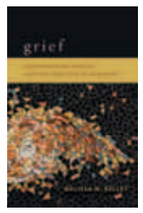

Lutheran Theological Seminary at Philadelphia

From personal interviews with chaplains at the temporary mortuary at Ground Zero and her own experiences as an Episcopal priest, psychotherapist, and chaplain, Storm Swain offers a new model of pastoral care grounded in theology and practice. Reflecting on experiences of suffering faced in ministry, Swain considers what it means to love in these instances and what is involved in ministering in these contexts. Within this model, caregivers can move from a place of trauma to a place of transformation, which enables wholeness and healing for both caregivers and those for whom they care.

Transforming Vision

Exploration in Feminist The*logy

Elisabeth Schüssler Fiorenza

Harvard Divinity School

Drawing from a career of pioneering scholarship, Schüssler Fiorenza situates the critical feminist theory that has characterized her work in the praxis of liberation. These path-breaking essays challenge academic and ecclesiastical theologians to embrace critical theory and the analysis of overlapping oppressions in their work. Transforming Vision seeks to free theology from the disciplinary constraints that allow acquiescence to and perpetuation of oppression.

ELISABETH SCHÜSSLER FIORENZA is the Krister Stendhal Professor at Harvard Divinity School, a founding editor of the Journal of Feminist Studies in Religion, past president of the Society of Biblical Literature, and author of many important and influential works, among them In Memory of Her (1984), Bread Not Stone (1985), Jesus: Miriam's Child, Sophia's Prophet (1995), and The Power of the Word: Scripture and the Rhetoric of Empire (2007). Love's Availing Power

Imaging God, Imagining the World

Paul R. Sponheim

Luther Seminary, Emeritus

Paul R. Sponheim explains God's willingness to accept risks in creating human freedom. Sponheim presents an understanding of God's power at work in the lives of creatures, encouraging relationships and inspiring activity on behalf of creation. Sponheim's formulation of freedom in relationship—born at the intersection of existential theology and process thought—provides a way between the extremes of individualism and a homogenizing that obscures the reality and responsibility of the individual. The power of love is not dominating coercion but a power that avails and helps to accomplish a truly human life.

Rethinking Faith

A Constructive Practical Theology

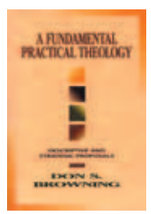

James Newton Poling

What can practical theology contribute to other theological disciplines and the church about the nature of God and the church's witness to Jesus Christ in the world? What can we learn about the love and power of God in Jesus Christ from the community of survivors of violence? Rethinking Faith urges all Christians to consider themselves practical theologians by drawing on their own experiences in making theological assertions.

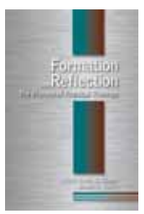

"Jim Poling offers one of the most comprehensive and creative books on practical theology in many years. He exemplifies the best qualities of constructive practical theology. This lively volume attempts to show how central Christian convictions inform the age-old practices of parenting and how the experience and practice of parenting shape Christian faith today. By paying special attention to some of the challenges and issues of parenting in a globalized world, the book offers a fresh vision of parenting that promotes justice, human flourishing, and recognition that all people are children of God.

Christian Explorations of Daily Living

Joerg Rieger

From the journey of Abraham to the travels of Jesus and Paul, from medieval pilgrims to today's global trekkers, travel has held deep religious significance. In fact, says Joerg Rieger, traveling can seen as a metaphor for the whole Christian life, especially pertinent in an age of global connectedness, widespread international travel, and religious encounter. Rieger's historical and theological reflections offer concrete ways in which travel can open up fresh encounters with meaning and, ultimately, the divine.

The Season of Creation

A Preaching Commentary

Edited by Norman C. Habel, David Rhoads, and H. Paul Santmire

As the global climate crisis worsens, many churches have sought to respond by instituting a movement to observe a liturgical season of creation. Scholars who have pioneered the connections between biblical scholarship, ecological theology, liturgy, and homiletics provide here a comprehensive resource for preaching in this new season. Included are theological and practical introductions to observance of the season, biblical texts for its twelve Sundays in the three-year lectionary cycle, and astute commentary to help preachers guide their congregations into deeper connection with our imperiled planet.

Preaching in a new Creation

NORMAN C. HABEL is professorial fellow at Flinders University, Australia, and author of The Earth Bible, vols. 1-4; Seven Songs of Creation, and The Land Is Mine.

DAVID RHOADS is Professor Emeritus of New Testament at Lutheran School of Theology at Chicago. He is the author of several books, including Reading Mark: Engaging the Gospel (Fortress Press 2004).

The Devil's Whore

Reason and Philosophy in the Lutheran Tradition

Studies in Lutheran History and Theology series

Jennifer Hockenbery Dragseth, Editor

Mount Mary College

Martin Luther's disdain for philosophy is well known, and the Lutheran theological tradition has been wary of its constructs. Yet the tradition also includes philosophical giants—from Melanchthon to Schleiermacher to Kierkegaard and even Nietzsche. The essays in this volume, by theologians and professors of philosophy, show that such skepticism about reason actually opened up new ways of doing and seeing philosophy. An illustrious group of philosophers, theologians, and historians gather here to assess the paradox and achievements of philosophy in the Lutheran vein, and their implications for today.

The Lutheran Confessions

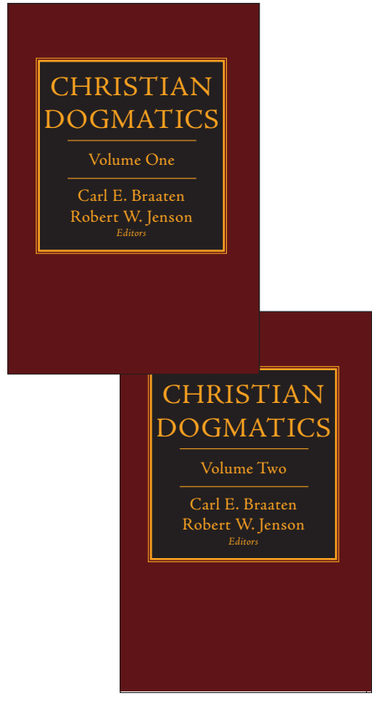

A Digital Anthology

Edited by Tim Huffman

This valuable tool enables students and other readers to understand the chronological and theological development of the Lutheran confessional heritage. Allowing direct comparison of the primary documents that fed into the Augsburg Confession, this interactive publication enables students to discern the evolution of thought in response to political and theological controversies during the early reform.

GORDON S. (TIM) HUFFMAN JR. is the John H. F. Kuder Professor of Christian Mission and editor of Trinity Seminary Review at Trinity Lutheran Seminary, Columbus, where he teaches Systematic Theology, Mission, and the Lutheran Confessions.

Christian Dogmatics, Volume 1
Christian Dogmatics, Volume 2

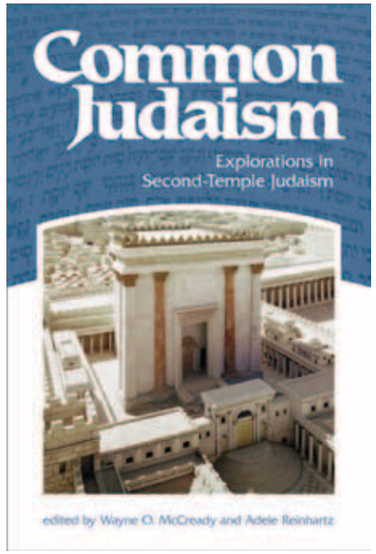

Edited by Carl E. Braaten and Robert W. Jenson

Christian Dogmatics is a two-volume survey of the twelve major loci of Christian doctrine, each treated extensively in terms of its biblical foundations, historical tradition, and contemporary significance. From the perspective of the Lutheran tradition and in view of the unique questions and issues of the American context, each locus is developed independent of the others by six theologians, themselves influenced by divergent theological movements: Carl E. Braaten, Gerhard O. Forde, Philip Hefner, Robert W. Jenson, Paul R. Sponheim, and Hans Schwartz. Volume 1 discusses dogmatics, the Trinity, the identity of God, creation, sin, and Christology. Volume 2 treats atonement, the Holy Spirit, ecclesiology, the sacraments, justification by faith, and eschatology.

ROBERT W. JENSON is the former Senior Scholar for Research at the Center of Theological Inquiry in Princeton, New Jersey, and Professor Emeritus of Religion at St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minnesota. With Carl Braaten, Jenson founded the Center for Catholic and Evangelical Theology and co-edited the journal Pro Ecclesia.

Common Judaism

Explorations in Second-Temple Judaism

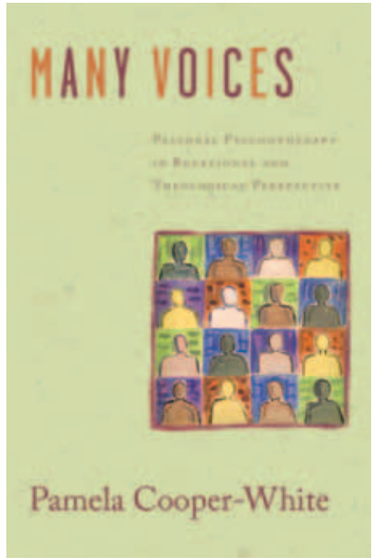

Edited by Wayne O. McCready and Adele Reinhartz

E. P. Sanders's monumental Judaism: Practice and Belief inaugurated vigorous debates about the extent and significance of commonality and diversity in ancient Judaism. Common Judaism gathers a host of scholars to present the state of our understanding of what was common ground in Second-Temple Judaism. By examining the tensions between a "common Judaism" and local settings, partisan Judaism, and the influence of Hellenism, these essays set contemporary discussion on a secure footing. An important resource for scholars and students alike, the contributors include: Lee I. Levine, Boaz Zissu, David Amit, Susan Haber, Albert I. Baumgarten, Anders Runesson, Cecilia Wassen, Anne Moore, Tessa Rajak, David Miller, Eliezer Segal, Seth Schwartz, and Ian W. Scott.

WAYNE O. MCCREADY is Professor of Western Religions and Director of the Calgary Institute for the Humanities at the University of Calgary.

ADELE REINHARTZ is Professor of Classics and Religious Studies at the University of Ottawa.

Many Voices

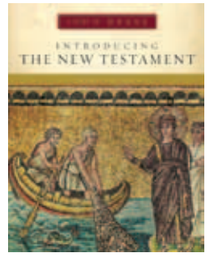

Pastoral Psychotherapy in Relational and Theological Perspective

Pamela Cooper-White

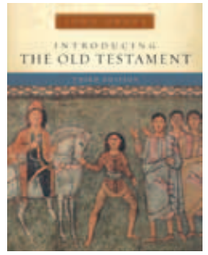

Many Voices combines theological tradition with the most advanced postmodern theological perspectives and a subtle, highly nuanced introduction to contemporary relational psychoanalysis for pastoral counselors and psychotherapists who help, accompany, and support persons in recognizing and healing especially painful psychic wounds or longstanding patterns of self-defeating relationships to self and others.

PAMELA COOPER-WHITE is Ben G. and Nancy Clapp Gautier Professor of Pastoral Theology, Care and Counseling at Columbia Theological Seminary in Decatur, Georgia.
